

The Fly on the Pizza

Some people have truly positive attitudes. Instead of crying “Yuk, there is a fly on my pizza, how disgusting!!!”, they find a surprisingly different perspective even then: “This must be great pizza – even the flies LOVE it”.

This is just an every day example, how attitude matters. How attitude alone can change a reality. And do we, as Christians, not have a special reason to display this inner happiness of thought?

You will enjoy “The Be Happy Attitudes” by Robert Schuller. Find them in the Christian Living section of the library. Or check out Charles R. Swindoll “Living on the ragged edge”, a book for all who are caught up in this rat race of life, a straight talk on coping with life as it is.

“Put on a happy Faith” by Cecil Murphy puts a humorous spin on the subject. Take your choice: the Church of the Long Face or the Order of the Perpetual Grin. 😊

The subject of happiness, inner attitude towards living and positive thinking, is also close to the heart of Norman Vincent Peale. He wrote “How to make Positive Imaging Work for You” and “You Can if You Think You Can”, also to be found in the Christian Living section.

A classic collection of stories about magnificent courage and faith is “Foxye’s Book of Martyrs”, an exceptional historical record in our Biography section.
